How many of us have spent FAR too long trying to kill rogue tasks - in either Windows, OSX, or Linux?

While following "@ComputerGeeker" on Twitter - I found the great article on killing tasks from the command-line (for all 3 of the aforementioned operating systems). This article lists several powerful, built-in tools for accomplishing this task - all from the command-line!

Yes, I realize that not everyone cut their teeth in a command-line world. However, I still find that the command-line offers us the more powerful tools - MOST of the time. Go to: Online Tech Tips for the full article!
